QUACK DOCTOR IS UNDER BONDS

Held as Responsible for the Death of Mrs. Katherine Nevin at San Francisco.

As the result of the death of Mrs. Katherine Nevin, late of Wells, Nevada, who died recently in San Francisco, Dr. S. R. Chamley is at the present time held under $20,000 bonds, charged with manslaughter.

From facts to be gathered from the newspapers and her brother-in-law, J. H. Nevin, it seems that the deceased went to San Francisco to take treatment for a cancer of the breast, believing that she was thus afflicted, after reading a card sent broadcast by Chamley announcing that "any lump in a woman's breat is a cancer," and further announcing that he could remove the same without "knife or pain."

The circumstances of her sudden death were so clouded that her husband and his brother decided to have an investigation of the case, and, calling upon the coroner, asked for a jury to look into the matter.

The report of this jury, the names of whom are John C. Newbaurer, Thos. Lubbe, Chas. F. Beckman, W. Walter, Chas. Turre and A. M. Commack, was as follows:

"That the said Katherine Nevin, aged 33 years, nativity Illinois, occupation housewife, residence Wells, Nevada, came to her death at 25 Third street, in the city and county of San Francisco, on the 9th day of February, 1903, from hemorrhage from an operative wound in the right breast, through lack of knowledge of the attending physician, Dr. S. R. Chamley, and further hold him responsible for her death. We further recommend to the Board of Medical Examiners of the city and county of San Francisco that the license of said Dr. S. R. Chamley be revoked for falsely certifying to the Board of Health as to the cause of death."

As soon as the jury reported a warrant was issued, and the result was as above stated.

In the examination before the coroner's jury it was developed that the patient had no care whatever, and that, instead of following out his advertised promise, the knife had been used, and that with unskilled hands, and many other facts relative to the work of the so-called doctot.

It seems there are some 700 of these quack physicians in San Francisco who in their oily way manage to get the work of the local physicians who have earned their diplomas and are more competent to handle these "special" diseases than those who are continually shouting about what they can do.

The result of the trial of Chamley will be watched with considerable interest, and the relatives of the deceased will see that it is prosecuted to the bitter end.

Result as it may, the facts as shown up in this case should warn people against the fakirs and quacks who are quite numerous in the medical profession.

Special to The Journal:

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—The fourth annual squash tournament for the championship of the United States opened at Tuxedo today and will continue until the middle of the coming week. The meeting has attracted many of the best squash players of the country, the number and prominence of the contestants giving evidence that the game, though still in its infancy, has taken a strong hold upon the fashionable set.

The prize of the tournament is the valuable cup that was presented by James Henry Smith in 1900. George I. Scott, of the New York club, is now the title holder and he will meet the winner of the tournament in the finals.

The inscription on the tablet reads: "Abraham Lincoln stood here when he raised the flag on Independence Hall, February 22, 1861. This tablet placed by Post No. 2, Department of Pennsylvania, of the Grand Army of the Republic."

COMPROMISE MEASURE

Leaders Think They Have at Last Solved Problem.

Special to The Journal:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21.—The Republican leaders think they have solved that statehood problem by a compromise measure devised today, but unfortunately the Democrats decline to take the same view.

The compromise plan is to admit Oklahoma and Indian Territory as one state, and combine Arizona and New Mexico to make another state. The Democrats will consent to no plan which does not give Arizona two senators.

The end of the deadlock on the canal treaty is in sight. It is believed Morgan will consent to a vote Monday or Tuesday.

POCKET-HUNTER

A Prominent Character of Mining Life of Past Years Is Now Disappearing.

In the gold fields of the west, the pocket-hunter has found his last "color," and struck his last "trace." The advent of modern day giants of gold-getting, the complete taking up of a once free domain, has forced him to pack his grub kit and hie into the dim and fading past. The hunter of pockets, the "coyote miner," the surface scratcher, has passed the age of his usefulnes. There was a time when he was a necessity. During the palmy days of the age of gold the pocket-hunter played an important part; and to his credit let it be said he played it well. Hhe blazed the trail that led to fields of gold. His shallow diggings were indications of lodge-ribbed mountains, of hidden treasures beyond his shovel handle's length, which was his limitation.

In the gold fields of southern Oregon and California, the pocket-hunter, during the pocket-hunting days, was a man not much to be despised. His was a vocation; an art, perhaps, gained only by years of experience. His deather-beaten face, his grizzled features, his wearied eyes, with the "crows feet" in their corners, his horny hands—all these told of frosty snows, of biting winds, and long journeys over granite hills, up mountain steeps.

Hunting gold pockets must not be confounded with the ordinary prospector; that would be a breach of respect to the latter and a dire insult to the former. The prospector was content with a "color," or even an "indication" in any form he found it; but with the pocket-hunter this was not so. He ignored sulphides and all other "phides." They were entirely out of his category. He wanted nothing but the pure article—the monometal, unalloyed, pure, smooth, and glittering. He wanted naught but gold, and he wanted it bunched close. He wanted pockets.

Ask a professional pocket-hunter to define a pocket, and he will do it with a twinkle in his eye, and very simply, too. His definition will be a picture of his ideal in the pocket line. He will tell you to imagine a hornet's nest made of clay, any size from that of a goose egg to a hogshead; fill this with gold nuggets, set it in the ground, or even hang it on a rock, and you have a pocket—an ideal pocket.

If you ask that same pocket-hunter how the gold accummulated in that pocket, he will speak up very knowingly and tell you it grew there! After you have recovered from your shock, he will cite an instance. He will tell of a pocket he discovered once upon a time—a pocket about he size of a hornet's nest, and hanging to a jagged piece of quartz on a steep mountainside, as a hornet's nest hangs to a limb. He crept up gently and peeped in. Lo! the pocket was nearly filled with bright and glittering gems! And clinging to the piece of quartz, like a drop of water quivering with its last desperate hold, was a tiny, sparkling nugget just on the verge of dropping into the pocket below. The hunter will tell you that he believes if it were possible for him to have removed the nuggets without disturbing the pocket, he could have returned after many years and found it filled again.

The pocket hunter left the main camp regularly every month or so, leading his pack pony, laden with pick, shovel, pan and grub kit. These were his stock intrade, his implements—he needed nothing more. Far out in the mountains he halted and struck camp. He followed the stream and panned the dirt, washing each pan carefully down and eagerly scanning the residue for colors of gold. If a little string of yellow followed in the corner of the pan, close at the heels of the black sand, the grizzled features would brighten with a smile of happiness. That little streak of yellow was particles of gold, and the black sand to which it closely clung was its inseparable companion. In nature the two are closely associated, and the pocket-hunter will tell you that they are just like Mary and her little lamb—where one goes the other is sure to follow.

If the pocket-hunter strikes good colors he pans again near about; then pans again, and if he finds the colors growing better with each pan, he smiles more happily, for then he knows he is on a "trace" to follow which correctly would lead him to a pocket. With each pan he pours the little yellow particles into his rough palm and examines them carefully. He knows at once whether each came from the same source. There are no two colors alike—to him. He knows his business. He would know those colors again should be find them in the mountain depths or washed across a city pavement. That is one of the tricks of his trade that took him years to learn.

Once on a "trace" the pocket-hunter is like a hound after a jack rabbit—there is no stopping him. Madly, excitedly, yet coolly and determinedly, he works till the treasure is found or hopelessly lost. Finding pockets was not "luck." It was hard work, and the many treasures found in southern Oregon and northern California during the early days and even in more recent years, were far more oft the result of hard systematic, persevering toil than of accident.

Most of the old-time pocket-hunters have gone over the great trail. They deserve to strike a better "trace" and find a richer treasure than they ever found over here. And perhaps they have. Who knows?

COMMUNICATION ON EXPENDITURE

Some of the Things the State Has Done and Is Doing Mentioned.

Editor Journal. Encouraged by your kindness in publishing my former communication to the Washoe delegation, I will add another, not, as before explained, to criticise, but in a friendly way assist in performing their duties.

From published reports I note that various and sundry propositions are proposed in the way of large and small appropriations, both state and county, among which is at least one for the purpose of advertising the resources of Nevada with a view of inducing immigration.

In my last letter I incidentally stated that our people had in the past spent large amounts with discouraging results, and now it may be of interest to know whdn, how and how much was really expended.

By looking through our statutes, since 1864, I find various laws passed under the somewhat delusive notion that in order to grow great as a state we must make a showing of what we have and what we are. Under this idea we sent an agent to the Paris exposition in 1867. This appropriation, however, was small. Next came a donation from the state treasury of twenty thousand dollars for exhibition purposes at the Centennial exposition at Philadelphia. Then $875 to make a show at Denver. Next in order was $500 to buy specimens of our products for exhibition purposes. Next a donation of $300 to the silver association in 1887. Next $2967 for exhibition at New Orleans in 1885. Next in order was $10,000 for exhibition at Columbian Exposition at Chicago in 1893. But this amount failed in paying all the cost, so a relief bill was passed in 1895 to pay balance of $1182. The next allowance was made to exhibit at the midwinter fair at San Francisco in 1894, which cost $14,387, or a total of $59,161 for exhibits abroad.

Now go back to 1865 and 1866, when the office state geologist was established in the former year and changed in the latter to state mineralogist, at a salary not to exceed $4000 a year, with assistents at $3000 a year. This flash estblishment was maintained for thirteen years at a cost of something like $6000 a year or $78,000 for the term. In 1877 the office was abolished and the school-master general was given charge of the exhibits on hand under the title of Curator of the State Museum of Mineralogical, Geological and other Specimens.

Since 1877 this office of Curator has been conducted at $500 a year, and expenses for twenty-five years, costing, to say nothing of the item of expenses, the further sum of $12,500, or a grand total of $140,361, and all this under the old chestnut plea that we must make our resources known to the world so as to induce immigration and capital to come and live with us, and build up the state.

Well, as suggested in a former communication, we have "built up" from a population of over 65,000 people in 1880 to about 49,000 at present, and will now add that if any one doubts our importance as a state, let him examine our expense account.

I note, too, that many propositions are pending or urged by our people to bond our county. One to issue $20,000 bonds for free library, another for bonds of $40,000 for a new iron bridge on Virginia street, a third for $25,000 to build a new hospital, a fourth only wants $80,000 for a new courthouse, a fifth wants $10,000 to repair the present one. Another to raise money by bond-mortgage to pave our streets,and still another to issue bonds in the sum of $15,000 or $20,000 to pay up outstanding claims against our road and general funds. This last, without expressing an opinion on the others, is certainly questionable in view of the law we have. See Section 2119 of General Statutes.

Had our officers observed this law there would not now be any "outstanding claims." This is simply the old story of going ahead regardless of law, incurring lavish cost, and then issue bonds to pay up. See Statutes of 1893, pages 29, 35 and 107.

Here it will be seen that three bond issues were authorized, the latter to pay for illegal expenditures. There is an old saying that "so long as you pay the spendthrift's debts so long you will have the opportunity."

By the way, can't our legislature invent a law that will enforce the laws we have instead of passing new ones to cumber our statutes as dead letters? This last suggestion, however, needs qualification, for I don't mean to say that all laws are inoperative for want of enforcement, for everybody knows that laws passed by the expenditure of public funds are always enforced. It may be remarked here, too, that when our meritorious laws are all enforced many public officials will wear a change of clothing.

My attention is called to assembly bill number 77, and, after reading it, I wonder: Can it be possible that such a law is needed as is here proposed? Is it possible that there is danger of principals in office and their deputies conniving to divide the pay of the deputies' salaries as allowed them by law? If so, would not our general laws concerning malfeasance and misconduct in office cover the case? As the author is an old friend of mine I will simply suggest that it is up to him.

I have also before me assembly bill number 49, which proposes to remedy the present custom regarding the recordation of marriages, births and deaths. This is a subject worthy the attention of all good citizens, but I feel sure the author is mistaken in the proper cure for the evil. To compel recorders to publish these records will simply cause expense without benefit to any one. What the public interest demands is that all marriages, births and deaths shall be recorded, but so long as ministers, judges, doctors and midwives fail and refuse to furnish proper certificates of these occurrences, how can the recorder record them? And here, too, I must again suggest that if our present laws are complied with, there will be no need of further legislation. I refer to Sections 448, 489 and 490 in regard to marriages, and to Sections 5059 and 5060 in relation to births and deaths, all in our compiled laws.

VALUE OF FARMER'S INSTITUTE

An Interesting Article Taken from the University Bulletin

The various State Agricultural Colleges and Experiment Stations are potent factors in the advancement of science in agriculture, and it is safe to say that no department of their work is more effective, and productive of more direct results than that of Farmers' Institutes.

While comparatively new in this State, they have been carried on for a number of years in eastern States and for some time in our sister State of California. It has been the history of the work in every State that, when first begun in any section, it was looked upon with indifference, coldness and even suspicion, but that as soon as the farmers have realized what these Institutes are, and what their aim is, there has been a demand for them. In most of the eastern States and in California, today, the demand for these meetings is so great that the farming interests have forced legislative appropriations of large amounts to carry on the work.

The Farmers' Institute is in its infancy in Nevada, for it was but a little over a year ago that the first institute ever held in the State was held at Elko, and proved a great success. Others have been held at Gardnerville and Lovelocks, and still other dates are on the calendar. We have met the same difficulty that other states have met before us—not a coldness and feeling of suspicion, in our case, however, but a lack of knowledge of the what and why of the Institutes. As a result our first audiences have not been large, but this was to be expected. Each succeeding session of an Institute brought a larger audience than had attended the preceeding session; for as farmers learned the object, and something of the benefits to be derived from the discussion they gladly attended the meetings, so that at the final session of an Institute we spoke to a full house—one of the first things we have met in going "to teach the ranchers how to ranch." And the tinge of irony with which this is said is very noticeable. This idea is one of the things which militate against the Institutes. Our first duty has therefore been to show the farmers that it is not our purpose to pose as a "know all," but that we are carrying on this work for mutual advancement—that we go to the farmer, because he has not the time to come to us; that we are there to talk over the great agricultural problems, to exchange ideas; and that we expect to receive from these meetings as much as we give. The results of this work in Nevada are already apparent in many ways. The Experiment Station is being brought into closer contact with those for whose benefit Congress endows it. The station staff are meeting the agricultural conditions as they exist, and are thus enabled to carry on their work in a much more satisfactory manner. As we gain the confidence of the farming communities of the state, the work will be far more effective, and we shall be able to perfect scientific agriculture and place it upon the high plane which it occupies in other and older states.

MARRAGE LICENSES

What Was Done in This Line Yesterday

Notwithstanding the fact that County Clerk Fogg showed up at the office yesterday morning with a large head and tired feet, he was ready for business just the same as usual. He got a small boy to bring in some wood and then he commenced work. This is the result of his matrimonial efforts—licenses granted:

Edward C. Miller and Mary L. Tomamichel, of Reno.

Henry M. Paulsen and Bertha L. Dornback, of San Francisco.

Stanley Cornelius and Leona Esray. The groom came from Modesto, while his lady love claimed Hanford, Cal., as her abiding place. Just as soon as the license had been issued and delivered this couple meandered into Judge Nash's chambers.

After delivering the usual questions Judge Nash joined them for the time being. They went away happy and left last night for their California home.

Next on the list was Harry T. Austin of Bakersfield and Mrs. Lulu Balcomb of Los Angeles. Henry walked right up to the county clerk told his troubles and got a license to marry the lady of his choice in less time than it takes to read this. Then went to California last night.

"MEN AND WOMEN"

A Charming Play to Be Presented Next Week

Great are the Reno Wheelmen.

The magnificent new clubhouse on Chestnut street is a monument to their greatness and public enterprise. Clubhouses cost money; they also beautify the city and improve property. The Wheelmen are going to give another function. This time it is a play, a great play, by a great home talent cast—and it will be on a scale that will do credit to them as entertainers. They never do anything by halves, and so have started in to have a fine production.

"Men and Women," by the same authors as "The Senator's Wife," was selected, and Mr. Levin will have the stage direction.

His already established reputation as an actor and a manager is a guarantee of an artistic success and thoroughly finished performance.

The cast will be composed of popular players from the local talent. The favorite leading man, F. P. Dann, will be seen as William Prescott, the cashier of the Jefferson National Bank, and Mrs. Sam Phelan, as Agnes Rodman, a girl of today. In this emotional role Mrs. Phelan brings to bear on the part all her charming personality, and a voice that has been thoroughly trained. W. W. Hunter, as Col. Kip, and Miss Brownlee, as Mrs. Delafield, have the high comedy roles.

Mr. Levin will be seen as Israel Cohen, the president of the Jefferson National. It is a character part totally different from his former role of the major, and he wil play it in dialect. In most plays the Jew is held up to ridicule, but in "Men and Women" the authors have created a part that for its noble qualities, high sentiments, and sterling business integrity, humanity and lovableness is an exponent of the American Hebrew as we find him in the highest walks of our business and social world of today. Governor Rodman of Arizona is one of the most intensely human parts ever written.

The whole play abounds in heart interest, and the strain is relieved by some of the most unctuous comedy, humor and wit ever penned.

The theme and its working out is something entirely new. It has been called a play of our times, as it deals with emotions and conditions as they exist today. Its people are men and women as we know them. There is no straining for dramatic effect. The situations are natural, and the interest intense.

Monday night, March 2, is the date set, and tickets may be had from the wheelmen, and at Rosenthal & Armanko's.

PHYSICAL DIRECTOR

A Popular Appointment Made at the University

Dr. A. C. Steckle, captain of the football team of the University of Michigan, '99, and a graduate of the Medical Department of the same university and of the Illinois College of Physicians and Surgeons, has been appointed to the position of Physical Director in the University.

Since the resignation of Miss Ada Edwards, the unversity has been without a physical director. Dr. Steckle has been the football coach for two seasons and has commended himself to our students by his painstaking skill and by his wide knowledge of the needs of students, says the University Bulletin. He comes into his new position with large experience and with the purpose of making his department one of the best of its kind. It is not too much to say that he is thoroughly well equipped. He will have charge of all the athletics, such as football, basket ball and field sports; and will direct the gymnasium work in such a way as to promote the best interests of the students.

A New Innovation

Joe Simpson, of the Monarch Lunch Counter, is certainly trying to make his place up-to-date in every particular. He recently installed a number of self-adjusting stools surrounding the counter that the as useful as unique. The old style of chairs have gone out of date, and Mr. Simpson has placed an improvement in his business that must be seen to be appreciated.

ROOSEVELT AND HIS ALLEGED FRIENDS

THE Carson News with more enthusiasm than discretion declares that it was not Mr. Hearst, but the President himself who gave to the public its first knowledge of the Standard Oil telegrams intended to influence senators in their action upon trust legislation. The Journal does not care a rap whether Mr. Hearst is entitled to the credit or not, but every American citizen having due regard for the dignity of the presidential office must indulge the hope that Mr. Roosevelt did not do it in the manner related by the News.

Our Carson contemporary says that the President, having learned what was going on, sent for some newspaper men and imparted the information to them. We are loth to believe this. It is not pleasant to think of any man occupying the exalted station of chief executive of the greatest nation on earth pursuing such a course. The act as described, was simply that of a demagogue. There is no doubt that Mr. Roosevelt is sensational and spectacular in a marked degree. It is also well known that his popularity has heretofore depended very largely upon the press advertising which he has received. But since his elevation to the presidency he has shown some disposition to adjust himself to the dignity of his position. He has been more conservative both in speech and action.

But no one has ever accused Roosevelt of being a fool. That is to say, the accusation has never been directly made. Some of his partisan supporters have occasionally intimated that he would or might do things which if he actually did do, would stamp him as a fool, or something worse. The statement upon which we are now commenting is fairly to be placed in the latter class.

If the President in advance of all others learned of the efforts of the Standard Oil Company to head off effective anti-trust legislation, and instead of laying the information promptly before congress, gave it to the press in the manner described it was an act so utterly at variance with the proprieties of the presidential office, that it would seem as if any Republican newspaper would rather conceal than parade the fact. It is strange, passing strange, that the Democratic press of Nevada should find it necessary so often to defend Mr. Roosevelt from the indirect aspersions cast upon him by his alleged Republican friends.

MAJOR GLENN'S CASE

WHEN Major Waller was tried for murder in ordering the shooting of Filipino prisoners without trial, he was acquitted by a court martial composed of brother officers. General Chaffee disapproved the findings of the court in language that could not be misunderstood. He stated that but for the extraordinary mental strain to which Waller had been subjected his act would clearly have been murder, and that in any event he should have been found guilty of some crime. The General also took occasion to say that the incident constituted one of the darkest chapters in the annals of the American army.

And now we have another somewhat similar case. Major Glenn, charged with unlawfully killing prisoners, has in like manner been acquitted by a court martial. General Davis approves the findings of the court, but at the same time disapproves the orders issued by Major Glenn, saying that they showed a reckless disregard for human life. Still, the officer goes free, with no other punishment than this statement of the commanding General's disapproval.

And so it has been all the way through. The rules of civilized warfare have been set at naught, prisoners have been shot down in cold blood, others have been tortured to death, orders have been issued by American officers that are shocking to the moral sense of humanity, and beyond the censure and retirement of "Hell-roaring" Jake Smith not one of the guilty officers has been punished. How true is it that a wrongful policy cannot be carried out by rightful methods.

FIGHTING ROOSEVELT

HANNA does not intend that Roosevelt shall get the colored vote of the south and the negro delegates to the next national convention, without a struggle. While the President is currying favor with the negroes by appointing some of them to office and inviting others to the White House, the astute senator from Ohio, has made a bid by the introduction of a bill to give a bounty and pension to all former slaves. This is as bad as paying off the Confederate debt, which the Republicans used to charge the Democrats with intending to do if they got into power.

The interests which Hanna represents are already opposing the renomination of Roosevelt. Wall street has been disturbed several times by the flighty man in the presidential chair. He has done no harm to their interests but he has caused them some alarm and they don't like to be frightened. The point has been reached under Republican rule when the great financial interests intend to control the politics of the country. They secured Republican supremacy in the last two national elections. If they had kept out of politics the Democrats would have won in 1896 and 1900. They have done business with Hanna for a long time, helping him to keep his party in power, and now he works with them to keep out a man of his own party, they do not want.

We are approaching a time when there must be another struggle like that of Jackson with the United States bank. Instead of one Nick Biddle there are a thousand. Instead of a few millions, they have billions. But their interests are like Nick Biddle's and like his, opposed to the interests of the people.

NEVADA NOT BEING OVERLOOKED

A WASHINGTON special states that a large tract of Nevada lands have been withdrawn from settlement for irrigation purposes. This is in the highest degree suggestive. It very clearly indicates that in outlining the irrigation work of the immediate future the Interior Department is not overlooking the Sagebrush State.

It is not in the least improbable that the prompt enactment of our State irrigation law had much to do with this action by the federal authorities, and the members of the legislature have every reason to be well satisfied with their work along this particular line

The fair and reasonable assumption is that these lands would not have been withdrawn from settlement unless there were a purpose soon to begin some of the work connected with the irrigation project. Whatever the work may be, it is a pleasure to believe, with good reason for the belief that Nevada is receiving due consideration.

HOBSON says it will take $100,000,000 to make our navy fit for use. Naval vessels become useless or obsolete in about ten years, so rapidly do improvements of construction, guns and armor crowd each other. Hobson's statement means then that we must have a continuous annual appropriation of at least $15,000,000 for naval construction.

The Man About Town...

Office
Same Old
Place

Yesterday morning the Man About Town had a few suggestions in regard to the things that should be forgotten. All well and good. But this morning he presents to the readers a few things that should be remembered. And now, that said, every one naturally wants to know "what is it?" Well, it is easily told.

Do not forget to call her up.

Do not forget that Reno should be incorporated.

Do not forget the theater tickets.

Do not forget to come home.

Do not frget that some people should clean their sidewalks.

Do not forget to order the coal.

Do not forget (?) to see the dentist.

Do not forget that the Orpheum has closed.

Do not forget to match the dress goods.

Do not forget to mail your wife's letters.

Do not forget that today is Sunday, and a day of rest.

Do not forget (?) your gas bill.

Do not forget the Southern Pacific subway.

Do not forget to keep tab on your neighbor.

Do not forget the condition of Virginia street.

Do not forget that the missing link can never be found.

Do not forget those postoffice doors.

Do not forget that a woman is like a big trust, especially if she acquires a controlling interest.

The only reason the Man About Town keeps giving the good people hints is because he is anxious to get rid of the stuff.

THE NEW YORK NEWS LETTER

Special to The Journal:

NEW YORK, Feb. 21.—Falling as it does on Sunday, Washington's birthday gives New Yorkers a double holiday, for Sunday's celebration will take place on Monday. The mild weather and the nearness of Lent are used as an excuse for an almost phenomenal rush to the nearby winter resorts and each out-going train is crowded with pleasure seekers. Notwithstanding the exodus, however, the city is crowded, for country folks have changed places and some to town for Sunday and Monday. Nobody loves a holiday like the New Yorker and nobody gets more fun out of it.

Judge Parker continues to be overwhelmed with invitations from all over the country to attend Democratic banquets, but the indications are that he has no desire to be exploited as a Presidential candidate.

A storm of criticism is pouring upon Bishop Potter because he has become an outspoken ally of District Attorney Jerome in the latter's campaign to secure the legal opening of saloons in this city on Sunday. The fight has also created new interest in the "Continental Sunday" movement. The position of Bishop Potter and Mr. Jerome is that it would be better to legalize the sale of liquors on Sunday, under proper restrictions, than to have it sold under an absurdly ineffective prohibitorq and restrictive regulation. It is a practicla certainty that the legislature will not pass the act permitting Sunday saloons; the sentiment is too strong against it.

As to religion in New York, the recent reports of the Church Federation are not encouraging, especially to the Protestant bodies. While heavy immigration has added immensely to the Catholic and Jewish population, the growth of the Protestant denominations has been comparatively small, and the attendance at all the churches is not increasing in proportion to the growth of the population. It is estimated that there are in Greater New York fully 1,000,000 "infidels," "backsliders" or persons who have no affiliation with any church, and the number of church members who seldom, if ever, attend services is also fully 1,000,000.

President Roosevelt comes to New York next Thursday to help the Methodists to inaugurate the anniversary celebrations which they are to hold of the birth of John Wesley two hundred years ago. The celebration will take place in Carnegie Hall under the direction of the Metropolitan Twentieth Century Commission. Other prominent speakers from various parts of the country will follow the President's address.

Another protest which the public is expressing with vigor is that against the change in the engraving of the two-cent stamp. The kick is impressive and has been made in newspaper editorials as well as by an army of fetter writers. t is generally held that the old stamp is the handsomest and neatest in design of any ever issued; that there was no demand for a change and that the new issues was apparently designed and decided upon by some officials at Washington to relieve the ennui of an overplus of spare time.

"There is no question that Mr. Roosevelt has alienated thousands of southern born New Yorkers who voted for him for Vice-President by his stand upon ther ace question and many say plainly that they will not cast a ballot for him under any circumstances. While the President has his supporters among the New York newspapers, the majority of papers, Republican as well as independent, have deplored the raising of the negro question and have expressed the view that Mr. Roosevelt has made a mistake.

LADIES' DAY

They Visited the Chamber of Commerce Yesterday

As announced in the papers, yesterday was "ladies' day" at the Reno Chamber of Commerce exhibit room, and they seemed to appreciate the fact and take advantage of the invitation extended to them by the trustees. Major Ingalis had to do the honors, and it goes without saying that he was at his best.

In all there were some sixty ladies registered on the visitors' list during the day. They were not all from Reno, however, many of the neighboring towns being represented.

All the ladies seemed to take deep interest in the exhibit, and many were very enthusiastic. It is indeed a good idea to get the ladies interested in the work planned out by the Chamber of Commerce, as they can and will, in more ways than one, aid in making the exhibit room attractive.

Without Foundation

All kinds of rumors were afloat yesterday about the sale of the Palace and Arcade hotels. It was positively stated that both of these establishments had been purchased by Frank Golden and James Butler, of Tonopah, but the rumor was without foundation.

John Fitzgerald of the Palace was seen and said that he had not been approached in any way in regard to a sale of his property, and the same was said in regard to the Arcade.

Frank Golden was seen by The Journal man last night and stated that he had made no overtures whatever in regard to the purchase of the property spoken of, but that he was ready to purchase almost anything in a realty line if it looked good to him.

NEW ORLEANS RACES

A Distinguished Crowd Witness the Washington Handicap

Special to The Journal:

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 21.—A distinguished crowd of visitors saw the races run at the fair grounds here this afternoon. General George Wheeler, Miss Alice Roosevelt, Wm. Hendrie and other notables were in the boxes, and applauded the winners of the go. The Washington handicap, the appointment of the six races, was one of the best of the season, and was run on a very fast track, in bright sunshine and before one of the biggest crowds that has attended the races here this season. The winner turned up in an outsider, Albert F. Dewey, at 7 to 1 in the betting, with Harges second, and St. Tammany third.

The pool room people in Butte got out an injunction against the police for stopping their business, and the test began in the courts yesterday.

Jockey Hoar had the riot act read to him by the New Orleans stewards for getting away so poorly with Becky Rice, favorite in the new St. Charles Stakes, and they warned him that such riding as he has been doing of late would not be tolerated in the future. Hoar is to ride for Charley Ellison the first twelve days of the Memphis meeting.

Martin Nathanson, secretary of the Harlem Jockey Club, who has returned from a visit through the south, reports that he has never seen conditions as favorable in the great training quarters as they are this year. On his trip he visited New Orleans, Memphis, Nashville, Louisville and Lexington and saw all the horses belonging to the great stables of Drake, Schorr, Bennett, Woods, Tichenor, Madden and others. What impressed him most on his journey was the forward condition of the horses and the splendid form that they have kept through the winter. He said:

"I saw about seventy-five candidates for the Derby through the south, and they are a fine looking lot of colts. I was over at Drake's quarters at Nashville and saw the three colts he has. I don't know but that Wishard thinks as much of Von Rouse and High Chancellor as he does of Savable.

"Drake has been wonderfully successful in the one year that he has raced in the country and he has a nice lot of likely looking 2-year-olds down at the winter quarters. Wishard is a good judge of racers and he has such a large number of horses to pick from that there is not much doubt of getting some good ones. He has been so pleased with the success he has had at Nashville as a training place this year that he expects to build permanent stables there.

"Schorr does not expect to race around Chicago this year. He will ship all of his string east. Probably if he had some one that he could put in charge of his stables here he would do it, but he has nobody now."

Crowds Bother Forbes

Harry Forbes has left Chicago and gone to Detroit to finish his training for his approaching fight with Andy Tokell for the international bantamweight championship, which is only ten days more. He will make his headquarters at the clubhouse of the Detroit Athletic club.

Forbes has been finding it difficult to do his training in Chicago. He has been doing his road work and boxing every afternoon with Fred Whittingham, but his friends and admirers crowd into the gymnasium where he is doing his work until the place is packed and he finds it difficult to carry out his regular program.

Pugilist O'Brien to Study Law

Jack O'Brien, of Philadelphia, who has been very successful as a middleweight, now announces his intention of abandoning the gloves of the prize ring for the mysteries of the law. O'Brien has made up his mind to become a lawyer and is already studying hard to attain this end.

Besides being a pugilist, O'Brien is also an insurance broker and real estate agent. He has made plenty of money as a fighter and has a lot of property in Philadelphia. O'Brien says that he does not intend to abandon the ring at once. He wants to fight Tommy Ryan first and become the middleweight champion of the world. Jack thinks there is a good chance of such a mill being had at Fort Erie some time in April. Whether he wins or loses, O'Brien avers that he will quit scrapping for good. The Philadelphia boxer will take up his new role under his present name, Joseph A. Hagan.

MINING NEWS OF INTEREST

Gathered from Doings of the Camps Hereabout

Active preparations toward the installation of an electric hoist at the Utah mine, on the Comstock, will be commenced Monday morning. The steam hoisting engine is to be removed entirely and the electric hoist to be used will be on the endless rope plan which will do away with the cable formerly used. The new electrical machinery has been shipped from New York and will arrive here during the coming week. The foundation will be finished and the new hoist installed by the first of April when work throughout the Utah shaft, which was suspended seven years ago, will be resumed.

Stunning Reducton Sale

A stunning reduction will be made on all winter millinery. Ladies out shopping will do well to call and see for themselves the tremendous cut we have made in prices. This sale will continue for the next thirty days. Early callers will have the choice, as everything must go to make room for spring stock.

Clairvoyant, Palmist and Phrenologist

Has decided to continue his REDUCED RATES one week more, positively ending and including February 21st. After which his full rates will be charged.

He drives away all scepticism and prejudices. If there is anything you wish to know, don't fail to call. Truthful in his predictions, reliable in his advice. Ladies may visit him without the least fear of unpleasant surroundings and gentlemen do not lose their self-respect by paying him a call. The doctor is a gifted, scholarly gentleman in every sense of the word and may be consulted on all matters of business, domestic life, law suits, buried treasure, property, wills, stock speculations, absent friends. Gives full names and lucky numbers, etc.

You will be told how to overcome all trouble, how to obtain the money you want, and what you are best adapted for. Tell when and whom you will marry, with full particulars how to control those you love.

What the People Outside of Reno Are Doing

One of the prettiest home weddings ever witnessed in Elko county was solemnized at the resident of Mr. and Mrs Fred Wilson last evening when Miss Neva Wilson became the bride of Arthur Primeaux.—Tuscarora Times-Review.

Three weddings are booked to take place in this city Sunday. Besides the one already mentioned in these columns, it is reported that two more of the Comstock's fairest daughters are to sail on matrimony's sea after this week. One of them is said to have promised her hand to a Tonopah capitalist, while the other will wed a Comstock raised young man, who is very popular in this city and a butcher by trade.—Chronicle.

While tending the brakes on the switch train near McGurn's wood yard this morning James Ryan, assistant yard master of the V. & T. railroad, met with a serious accident, which will lay him up for some time to come. He was about to turn off the brakes on a moving box-car when his foot slipped and he fell head foremost to the ground striking in such a manner that he was thrown backwards toward the moving cars. His head was struck by one of the wheels, laying open the scalp and fracturing his skull. He was removed to his home and medical assistance summoned. It required sixteen stitches to close the scalp wound on the injured man's head. Those who witnessed the accident say it was a very narrow escape from instant death for if he had fallen a few inches further under the train his head would have been crushed beneath the weight of the cars, as it was, the wheel struck him a glancing blow.—Virginia Chronicle.

LIQUID AIR

To Be Illustrated at the M. E. Church Thursday Evening

Naturally, the instructive and up-to-date character of the liquid air entertainment appeals strongly to the scholars and faculty, and a large number of such will attend the lecture and experiments next Thursday evening. There is not only delightful entertainment, but a great deal of instruction as well in these demonstrations of marvelous liquid air.

Probably every teacher and nearly the entire high school will attend the liquid air entertainment next Thursday night at the Methodist church.

Pretty Cold

James Harper came in from the north yesterday. He has been doing the towns to the north for some days, and says that although business was good, the weather was abominable. To make this statement good James showed up a nose that was looking like a boiled lobster. "Say, Skin, old boy, that's what I've gone through lately. You never seen anything but cold weather peel my beak."

The Journal man took a fizz and said "Sorry, Jim, but can't do anything for you." Second chapter will be ready for publication Tuesday.

Card of Thanks

I desire, in this manner, to express my heartfelt thanks to the many friends who assisted me and mine during the sickness of my wife, and also those who attended to the many details incident to the funeral. The action of my friends during this critical time will never be forgotten and can never be repaid. Accept the thanks of a broken hearted father and children.

ALEX. AGUAYO and children.

A Quiet Saturday

As a usual thing the town is exceptionally lively on Saturdays as nearly all the farmers on the Meadows come to this city for their weekly supplies. Yesterday, however, was an exception to the rule. But few of the ranchers were in, and the merchants reported that business was rather slack.

On the Sick List

Officer Brundage is confined to his home by sickness and will not be able to be on duty for some time.

Mr Brundage has one of the most important details on the police force, that of the tenderloin, and it is to be hoped that he will be able to resume his beat in a short while.

Commander in Chief Passes Through

P. J. Stewart, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, passed through Reno last night en route to San Francisco. He will remain some time on the coast. Owing to the lateness of the train an interview with the distinguished gentleman was impossible.

Don't forget the Diamond.

BREVITIES

Manheim is now well stocked with a large supply of fresh candy.

Heaven hasn't time to help the man who is a victim of that tired feeling.

Geo. Kritser, who has been laid up with rheumatism for the last two months, was able to be out again yesterday.

The lady who accidentally exchanged cloaks with a lady friend at the Wheelman dance Friday evening will confer a favor by bringing the same to J. R. Bradley's store.

THINKS WELL OF MINE

John Wedekind Has a Mine That He Will Work Himself

The Gardnerville Record contains the following interesting article in regard to a Reno man, and his mine:

J. L. Wedekind, of the Golden Gate mine, was in town Wednesday on his return from Virginia City. As soon as a couple of test runs are made with the little three stamp mill now at the mine, work will be commenced on the construction of a 10 or 20 stamp mill. Evidently Mr. Wedekind has $250,000 worth of faith in the mine (that amount we are informed having been offered for the property)and proposes working it himself.

Will Remain in the Federation

The special election held by the Virginia Miners' Union yesterday to vote on the question of withdrawing from the Western Federation of Miners' resulted in a total of 192 ballots being cast, of which 105 were against withdrawal, 85 in favor of the proposition and two scattering. The contest was very spirited, both sides working industriously for or against the measure. —Report.

Did You See Our Shirt Sale?'

It is still on at thes ame old prices, 40 and 50 cents. No better goods to be had. We wish to close them out. We are showing a nice line of new lace collars, also embroidered turn-over collars. The price, you know, is right when bought at our store. The merchandise is right, too. Yours to please

The Pasmores

The celebrated Pasmore trio will give a concert in Reno shortly. The Pasmore sisters are young musicians of wonderful ability, having appeared in concert before many critical and cultured audiences all over California. They will be assisted by Miss Benia George and Miss Zueletta Geary, formerly of Wadsworth.

A Change of Firms

Frank B. Comstock has purchased the road house near the race track and will hereafter conduct the same as a well kept resort. There is much travel on this road, and, as it is the stopping place between here and the Wedekind mine, lots of people will stop over and be glad to meet Frank in his new venture.

Returned From Pyramid

Bob Parry returned from Pyramid last night. Mr. Parry has been out to the lake looking after the mines under his control and reports everything looking fine. The mines are being worked on an extensive scale, and a shipment of ore, already sacked, will be made shortly.
